

As the number of dead and seriously and/or permanently disabled caused by the Covid-19 injections, reaches heights beyond imagination, the question now is... who needs to be prosecuted?

COVID-19 jabs are now known to have been falsely promoted to the public as 'vaccines', and the Department of Defence (US) that controlled the research on these products, states they are in fact classified as countermeasures or bioweapons – not pharmaceuticals. Due to their experimental nature, they are best described as experimental emergency medical countermeasures (EEMCs) and there was never any evidence to claim that they could prevent disease in healthy people or that they were safe in most people.

The question of who should be prosecuted over this medical fraud is an easy question to answer in the case of those who plotted, planned and benefited from this crime against humanity. Those who were knowingly involved in highly dangerous and risky gain-of-function viral research, would be obvious candidates, but there are likely to be many more who really knew the dangers, or worse still, purposely used SARS-CoV-2 as a convenient bioweapon to achieve their goals.

In particular, the WHO advisors who promoted this product to governments and Australian government advisors who recommended these injections as 'vaccines that are safe and effective', when no evidence existed to support these claims. These authorities should be charged for providing false and misleading health information that has led to the deaths and permanent disabilities of millions of people globally.

The Covid-19 injections have caused more death and serious injury than any pharmaceutical product in history. (Note: these genetically modified mRNA injections were not developed to the standards of conventional 'pharmaceuticals').

In order to decide who should be held accountable, the commonly used phrase "what did they know and when did they know it" springs to mind. This could be a useful demarcation line.

Anyone working within the national adverse drug reporting systems now knows, or should know, the truth. In order to suppress the deadly toll of the Covid-19 injections, there must be active and purposeful cover up or manipulation of data. In my view, the people doing this have criminal exposure that should be the first target for prosecution, as it is primarily this corrupted data that Big Pharma clings to in order to claim 'safety' for the 'vaccines' and keep this facade going.

The senior bureaucrat so-called 'health experts' who continue to make Covid-19 'vaccine' policy and support mandatory vaccination, also have exposure. Ignorance is no longer an excuse. The red flags are everywhere. There is no good news about these falsely promoted injections...only continuing bad news.

Now that people are waking up, the question is what needs to be done? One thing is for sure, unless people are held to criminal account and go to jail, we are guaranteed to repeat this sad saga again and again.

Here is my short list of recommendations:

Immediate Actions Today:

1. Unconditionally withdraw

ALL Covid-19 'vaccines'.

2. Halt construction of mRNA 'vaccine' facilities.

3. Eliminate all 'vaccine' mandates.

4. Establish specialist medical units to treat the 'vaccine' injured.

5. Block attempts by the WHO to usurp our national sovereignty on health issues through the International Health Regulations.

Longer Term Over the Next Few Months:

6. Set up a series of Royal Commissions into the perpetration of the biggest fraud and orchestrated medical disaster in the history of mankind with powers to prosecute individuals. This must include an investigation into the

- i) Mainstream media for their role in covering up.

- ii) Health authorities for collaborating and hiding deaths.

- iii) Health regulators for preventing useful treatments to be used, resulting in the additional loss of life.

- iv) Big Pharma corruption and infiltration of the healthcare bureaucracy with conflicts of interest.

7. Review of all laws and regulations which enabled our basic freedoms to be swept away and lockdowns implemented, in the name of keeping us safe with little justification or evidence.

8. Those responsible for the prevention of early treatment of Covid-19 and the obscuring of medical information regarding the dangers of the 'vaccines', to be prosecuted both in civil and criminal courts.

9. Completely overhaul the adverse drug reaction reporting systems, to be capable of detecting causal links and eliminate bias. Get rid of conflicted individuals and ensure transparency. If this cannot be done, get rid of the Provisional Approval system in Australia and similar emergency use approvals in other countries.

That would be a good start... there is no time to waste. This is the greatest man-made disaster in history and those responsible must be held to account.
